The French-style chateau has plenty of space for entertaining.

There's an outdoor dining room and a salt-water pool.

"They completely fell in love with the place," which has seven bedrooms and eight bathrooms, according to an insider.

Tom & Katie's They try to reconnect at their Canadian hideaway posh summer place

Her husband loves attention, but Katie Holmes always wishes she could shy away from the Hollywood scene. And now she's finally living her dream of a life out of the limelight. The small-town-bred actress, 31, is smitten with her quiet, temporary hometown of Toronto, and luckily, her superstar hubby, Tom Cruise, 48, is onboard. "Both Katie and Tom love being in Toronto," an insider says of the couple, who are living in the Canadian city while Katie films her role as Jacqueline Kennedy for the History Channel's upcoming miniseries The Kennedys.

Katie was even able to pick strawberries at a local farm with her 4-year-old daughter, Suri, without being bothered. "They can go about their business as normal people, and no one interrupts them," the insider adds.

But the Cruises are certainly not roughing it: The famous family has rented a stunning 6,300-square-foot mansion — complete with a nanny suite, a spa and a heated outdoor entertainment area — in the prestigious Hoggs Hollow neighborhood of northern Toronto. "They seem to be blending in just fine," says the insider. "They are loving all of the family togetherness."
